2. What's the point of a great view if you can't get to see it?
This is where London comes into its own.
Precisely because the capital is relatively lowrise, you don't have to be on top of a skyscraper to see it all from above.
And there are loads of cathedral spires, public buildings, bars and restaurants t hat offer superb view of the city.

3. Last year my bestfriend and I didn't spend the summer holidays at the beach as usual/as we usually do: instead, we went to Paris to stay with Lucy's cousin, who has been living there for ages. This relative of hers is called Claire, she's a very nice and funny girl. She's a model, and she owns /has a little apartment in/at Mont-Matre. She didn't ask us any money for staying there/for the accomodation.

7. Easter is a very old festival.

It's also the start of spring and new life.

Eggs and chicks are the symbols of Easter. They are symbols of Birth.

Today, Easter is a national holiday in Britain. Children do not go to school. Banks and shops are closed. People give easter eggs (usually made of chocolate).
